CELEBRATING DIVERSITY

Monday marks the beginning of the festival of Diwali, India's most important holiday. In Hinduism, Diwali is a 5-day festival of lights which celebrates triumph of good over evil, light over darkness.

Other communities also celebrate this day. In Sikhism, this day marks the day Guru Hargobind Ji was freed from imprisonment. In Jainism, Diwali celebrates the spiritual awakening of Lord Mahavira. Some Buddhists in India also celebrate Diwali.

The month of October also celebrates:

German Heritage Month

Islamic Heritage Month

Latin American Heritage Month
